Overtime must be officially directed by a 'supervisor and approved in advance by an official delegated the authority to approve, overtime. In order to avoid any perception of favoritism in scheduling and approving overtime, managers must equitably assign overtime work taking into consideration the workload and qualifications of all employees in the work unit.

Overtime, accrual of Compensatory Time and accrual of credit hours may not be performed on days that accrued annual leave, sick leave, leave without pay, compensatory time, or credit hours are used by the employee.

Overtime, Compensatory Time, and credit hours are not approved if there are a sufficient number of regularly scheduled work hours available to the employee to complete the project deliverable by established due dates.

Requests for approval of overtime while employees are in travel status must be carefully scrutinized by managers. Only under very limited circumstances may overtime, or compensatory time in lieu of overtime pay, be approved during travel status. Managers are reminded that travel should be arranged during the hours in a standard workday.

Compensatory time is accrued in 15-minute increments. Managers are responsible for ensuring that employees use accrued compensatory time within 8 pay periods.
- C. Credit Hours Employees may elect to earn credit hours in lieu of overtime patient or compensatory time. Such requests must be approved in advance by the employee's immediate supervisor. Credit hours are earned equal to the amount of time worked and may be earned in 15-minute increments. Employees may earn no more than 90 minutes of credit time per workday and are responsible for tracking credit hours accrued and available, and for obtaining prior approval from immediate supervisors before using credit hours. No more than 24 credit hours may be carried over from one pay period to the next.
- 8. LEAVE. Employees may use accrued annual and sick leave, compensatory time, earned credit hours, or be granted leave without pay, in increments of fifteen minutes. The SF-71 must be submitted as far in advance as possible by the requesting employee directly to his/her immediate supervisor, or other individual designated as the employee's leave approving official.

Supervisors are responsible for being aware of employees' available leave balances to ensure appropriate approval of leave requests. Employees who are on leave restriction may not be advanced sick and/or annual leave.

To keep disruptions to a minimum, the following procedures for employees to request and use leave are established:

- A. Unscheduled leave. Supervisors must consider emergency leave requests on a case by-case basis. Employees must request approval of unscheduled leave within one hour after the start of their scheduled workday. Requests for unscheduled leave because of an emergency are to be made directly to the supervisor or designee by the employee unless his/her situation prevents personal contact. Notification to the supervisor from other than the employee does not constitute leave approval.
- Annual leave. Annual leave must be scheduled as far in advance as possible by the employees with their immediate supervisors. It is the responsibility of each employee to monitor his/her (use or lose) annual leave account and to make appropriate advance requests for use to avoid losing part of their annual leave b a l a n c e .

c. Sick Leave When an employee is absent because of illness or injury, he/she must notify his/her supervisor as soon as possible, unless there are extenuating circumstances beyond the employee's control. In such cases the employee must make an honest attempt to notify his/her supervisor by some other means.

Sick leave may be authorized for employees who are being treated by traditional tribal methods, traditional healers, medical professionals, and other health providers consistent with current, policies, practices, and regulations.

- (1) Extended Sick Leave. Employees must notify their supervisors daily during periods of extended sick leave, unless otherwise instructed by the supervisor., Notification, in itself, is not approval or disapproval of sick leave. Employees are required to furnish a medical certificate to support requests for sick leave in excess 'of 3 consecutive workdays.
- (2) Supporting Evidence. Supervisors have the right to require an employee to furnish acceptable medical documentation for sick leave when there is reason to suspect abuse, of sick leave by the requesting employee.
- Advanced Sick Leave. Employees may be granted. advanced sick leave. In considering requests for advanced sick leave, supervisors must approve requests prudently and in accordance with HHS Personnel Instruction 630-1. Advanced sick leave may be approved for periods of not more than 30 days under the following circumstances:
 - (a) A written request has been properly submitted, including medical certification.
 - (b) There is a reasonable assurance that the employee will return to duty and is not contemplating a resignation or retirement.

4.3

Ι

D. Compensatory Time Off for Religious Cbservances
Employees may be granted religious compensatory time for religious observances when personal religious beliefs, require them to be absent from work during periods of the workday or workweek in accordance with HHS Personnel Instruction 550-11.

Employees must request approval of compensatory time off for religious observances in advance and in writing from their immediate supervisors. The request must include all of the following information:

- (1) The date(s) and number of hours requested.
- (2) A clear explanation of the personal religious belief that requires absence from work at the time requested
- (3) The proposed date(s) on which the religious compensatory overtime work will be performed.

Religious compensatory overtime work must be scheduled within 4 pay periods before or after the requested religious compensatory time off. If an employee fails to adhere to the schedule, the time off will normally be charged to annual leave or leave without pay (LWOP) at the employee's option.

E. Fami F endly Leave Act. The Family Friendly Leave Act (FFLA) authorizes an employee to use his/her accrued sick leave to care for family members. A family member as defined by the act is: (1) A spouse, and parents thereof; (2) children, including adopted children and spouses thereof; (3) parents; (4) brothers and sisters, and spouses thereof; and (5) any individual related by blood or, affinity whose close association with the employee is the equivalent of a family'relationship.

All employees covered under the FFLA may use up to 40 hours (5 workdays) of sick leave to give care or to attend to a family member having an illness, injury, or other condition that, if an employee had such a condition, would justify the use of sick leave. Employees who maintain a balance of at least 80 hours of sick leave (after the first 40 hours/5 work days have been deducted) may use an additional 64 hours (8 workdays) of sick leave per leave year for the above purposes.

Employees may use up to 40 hours of sick leave to make arrangements necessitated by the death of a family member or attend the funeral of a family member.

At no time may the total amounts of sick leave used under the FFLA exceed 104 hours per leave year. Supervisors may also request acceptable documentation' that supports an employee's request to use sick leave under the FFLA.

F. Leave Without Pay Leave without pay (LWOP) is not an entitlement; employees must request approval of LWOP just as they would annual, leave, as far as possible in advance of actual dates of the LWOP. Disabled veterans may use LWOP as necessary for medical treatment. Reservists and National Guardsmen may use LWOP as necessary when their units are activated. Such requests would not be denied.

An employee may be granted LWOP in cases of illness or injury when his/her sick and/or annual leave balances have been exhausted.

Leave without pay should not be confused with Absence Without Leave .(AWOL). Supervisors cannot place employees on LWOP when they fail to request leave. Supervisors can only place employees on AWOL when an employee fails to request leave and/or present an adequate reason as to why he/she did not report to work as scheduled and/or request leave.

G. Foamily Medical Leave Act The Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA) provides employees with up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave to care for a family member. Paid leave can be substituted for unpaid leave. When invoking the FMLA, the requesting employee must provide his/her supervisor with medical documentation that includes a prognosis, expected duration of family members' illness, and certification by a health professional that the employee is needed to care for a member of his/her family. Under the FMLA, a family member is defined as a spouse, daughter, son, or parent.
